At a time when so much around us has felt uncertain, deeply concerning, and divisive, this program has reminded me that there are many thoughtful, talented, and motivated people in this world working to make a difference. I have learned a tremendous amount about the SoCal region and the way current events & systems impact our communities and will shape them in the years to come. I know that many of the relationships & friendships I have built in the program will stay with me long into the future.
